

Shona McGlashan

Vice-President, Governance, Vancity

Shona McGlashan is Vancity credit union's Vice-President of Governance. Originally from Scotland, Shona began her career in the UK's House of Commons, providing professional and procedural support to parliamentary committees and the Speaker. Since then she has held senior governance and policy roles on both sides of the Atlantic, including working as Chief Governance Officer at Mountain Equipment Co-op (MEC), and Executive Director of the Vancouver Police Board. Over the course of her career she has led governance, corporate affairs/ issues management, privacy, and diversity and inclusion functions.

An inspiring and passionate leader and mentor, Shona sits on the boards of Bard on the Beach and the Vancity Community Foundation. She is always delighted to talk about governance, Shakespeare, supporting mental health, and feminism. A voracious reader, she would love to know your favourite novel(s). Shona lives in Vancouver with her husband and two awesome kids.
